

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS 9

INTRODUCTION 11

1. WHY GENDER MATTERS IN DRUG USE 14

 1.1 A Postmodern Feminist Perspective 14

 1.2 The Victim – Rebel Dichotomy in Research
 on Women’s Drug Use 16

 1.2.1 Emphasis on Structural Constraints 16

 1.2.2 Emphasis on Individual Agency 18

 1.2.3 The Victim – Rebel Dichotomy 19

 1.3 Conclusion 21

2. THE INTERACTION OF AGENCY AND SOCIAL STRUCTURE . . . 23

 2.1 Agency 23

 2.2 Social Structure 25

 2.2.1 Social Structure and Intersectionality 26

 2.2.2 Subjects in the Social Environment 28

 2.3 Interaction 29

3. METHODOLOGY 32

 3.1 Research Techniques 33

 3.1.1 Interviews 34

 3.1.2 Focus groups 35

 3.1.3 Informed Consent and Confidentiality 35

 3.2 Target Group: Women Who Have Experience with Long-term Drug Use 36

 3.2.1 Sample selection 38

3.3 Main Research Question and Partial Research Questions	41
3.4 Narrative Approach to Data Analysis	42
3.4.1 Agency and Narrative Discourse	43
3.4.2 Narratives as Data	45
3.4.3 Approaches to Narrative Analysis	46
3.4.4 Validity	49
3.4.5 Reflection on the Research Context	51
4. AGENCY IN NARRATIVES OF WOMEN WHO HAVE EXPERIENCE WITH DRUG USE	60
4.1 Context of the Research Environment	61
4.1.1 Methamphetamine / Pervitin	61
4.1.2 The Czech Welfare System and Services for Drug Users . . .	62
4.2 Drug Use	64
4.2.1 Reasons for Drug Use	64
4.2.2 Reasons for Abstinence	89
4.2.3 Health Care and Harm Reduction Strategies	93
4.2.4 The Complexity of the Drug Economy	101
4.3 Motherhood	114
4.3.1 Unplanned Pregnancy	116
4.3.2 Negotiating 'Normal' and 'Good Enough' Motherhood . .	123
4.3.3 Kindergarten and School as Support in Parental Roles . .	149
4.4 Housing	153
4.4.1 Insecure Housing Conditions and Exposure to Violence .	155
4.4.2 Drifting between Asylum Homes and Hostels	166
4.4.3 Family as a Support in Housing Trajectories	181
4.5 Experiences with Violence	186
4.5.1 Domestic Violence and the Failure of Professional Support	186
4.5.2 Relation between Violence and Homelessness	193
4.5.3 Aggression and Resistance towards Violence	196

5. DISCUSSION	200
5.1 Important Subjects in the Social Environment	201
5.2 Forms of Agency	201
5.2.1 Use of Resources to Overcome Constraints	202
5.2.2 Use of Resources to the Benefit of Self and/or Others	204
5.2.3 Resistance to Expectations	205
5.2.4 Withdrawing from Interaction	207
5.2.5 Exercising Control	207
5.2.6 Exercise of Power over Other People / Revenge	208
5.3 Narrative Discourses and Interdiscursivity	209
6. IMPLICATIONS FOR SOCIAL WORK	215
6.1 Definitions of Social Work	216
6.1.1 The Crisis of Knowledge and Crisis of Identity	218
6.1.2 Different Views on Social Work	219
6.2 Critical Social Work	221
6.2.1 Empowerment and Critical Reflection	222
6.3 Research Findings and their Implications for Social Work	225
6.3.1 Sources of Knowledge and Power Relations	225
6.3.2 Empowering Social Work Practice	229
CONCLUSION	232
REFERENCES	234